1 │ Introduction

The Corporate and Academic Governance Framework (CAGF) at Oxford Business College (OBC) embodies the definitive guide for institutional governance, established in alignment with section 175 of the Companies Act (2006), as referenced by Section 3 of the College Articles of Association. The two shareholders, including the Managing Director and the Company Secretary, have conferred full decision-making responsibilities upon the Board of Governors (BoG). The CAGF ensures that the BoG operates with a clear demarcation of its authoritative role, maintaining accountability and transparency, which are paramount to the College's integrity and the trust of its stakeholders.

The practicalities enforced by the CAGF identify the BoG as the highest decision-making authority of the College, granting the BoG comprehensive oversight of the College's operational and strategic proceedings, affirming compliance with legal standards and adherence to exemplary governance practices. The framework not only facilitates effective and efficient governance processes but also promotes proactive risk management and continuous enhancement of the College. It is designed to engage and unite all stakeholders under the shared objective of academic excellence, thereby driving OBC forward with a steadfast commitment to educational quality, innovation, and integrity.

2 │ Vision, Mission and Core Values

The BoG at OBC has formally endorsed the Vision 2030 and Strategic Plan 2025-2030, encapsulating the College's strategic foresight and commitment. This endorsement ensures that the College's Vision, Mission, and Core Values are embedded within the CAGF, guiding principles, operations, and decision-making processes. The alignment of the CAGF with these elements underpins the College's dedication to realising its aspirational goals and fostering a culture that reflects its core values:

3 | Governance Principles

Considering the size of the organisation, BoG endeavours to be guided by the six primary elements of higher education governance, as set out in the Council of University Chairs (CUC) 'The Higher Code of Governance' (Appendix A). The application of this code is influenced by the core values of higher education governance and the Office for Students (OfS) Regulatory Framework, Notices, and Advice.

OBC has adopted guiding principles in accordance with the six primary elements outlined in the CUC 'The Higher Education Code of Governance'. These OBC principles are as follows:

1. High-quality provision with robust academic standards.

2. Equal opportunities for all students at the College to achieve their potential.

3. Quality assurance and enhancement of all teaching, learning and assessments, as well as any academic research carried out at the College.

4. Oversight of all higher education and the student experience by the internal Academic Board, which reports directly and transparently to the BoG.

5. Accountability of the Strategic Leadership Team (SLT) to the BoG, who are responsible for ensuring that the College is able to deliver on the College mission, Key Performance Indicators (KPIs), and strategic plan.

The College has applied to register as a higher education provider with the OfS and submits to being in full compliance with the OfS public interest principles:

1. Academic freedom: Academic staff at an English higher education provider have freedom within the law:
   - To question and test received wisdom and;
   - To put forward new ideas and controversial or unpopular opinions without placing themselves in jeopardy of losing their jobs or privileges they may have at the provider.

2. Accountability: The provider operates openly, honestly, accountably and with integrity and demonstrates the values appropriate to be recognised as an English higher education provider.

3. Student engagement: The governing body ensures that all students have opportunities to engage with the governance of the provider, and that this allows for a range of perspectives to have influence.

4. Academic governance: The governing body receives and tests assurance that academic governance is adequate and effective through explicit protocols with the senate/academic board (or equivalent).

5. Risk management: The provider operates comprehensive corporate risk management and control arrangements (including for academic risk) to ensure the sustainability of the provider's operations, and its ability to continue to comply with all of its conditions of registration.

6. Value for money: The governing body ensures that there are adequate and effective arrangements in place to provide transparency about value for money for all students and (where a provider has access to the student support system or to grant funding) for taxpayers.

7. Freedom of speech: The governing body takes such steps as are reasonably practicable to ensure that freedom of speech within the law is secured within the provider.

8. Fit and proper: Members of the governing body, those with senior management responsibilities, and individuals exercising control or significant influence over the provider, are fit and proper persons.

4 │ Governance Structure

The structure and organisation of governing bodies are pivotal to the effective delivery of College's mission and strategic plan. Each entity in the governance structure in playing distinct roles in guiding the College's strategic direction, operational implementation, and overall compliance.

4.1 │ Governance Group

The Governance Group (figure 1) is the apex structure of the College's governance hierarchy, responsible for the overall strategic direction and policy setting. This group ensures the College's mission, vision, and core values are upheld and reflected in all decision-making. It is tasked with overarching responsibilities such as approving strategic plans, ensuring compliance with statutory and regulatory obligations, and providing guidance to all the levels of governance.

The Governance Group is further divided into Corporate and Academic (figures 2 and 3 respectively) arms to ensure the academic independence of the Academic Board.

The governing bodies within OBC are delineated into Boards, Committees, and Panels, each with distinct roles and responsibilities that uphold the integrity and the direction of the College's academic endeavours (figure 4).

4.2 │ Board

A Board is a high-level governing body with strategic oversight, ensuring the College's alignment with its academic and corporate mission. Composed of senior and strategically selected members, Boards hold the ultimate decision-making authority on critical matters, uphold academic standards, ensure financial sustainability and legal compliance, and maintain accountability to key stakeholders. They serve as stewards of the College's legacy and reputation, embodying a commitment to excellence, inclusivity, and innovation.

4.3 │ Committee

Committee is specialised governing entity within the College that focuses on specific areas of oversight and responsibility. Each committee is endowed with a distinct remit to oversee, guide, and report on various facets of the College's operations. They are instrumental in setting the strategic direction for their respective areas, establishing criteria for achievement, and ensuring that goals and policies are being met effectively.

The Terms of Reference (ToR) for each committee encompass functions such as planning, offering assistance and guidance, monitoring progress, controlling scope, and resolving conflicts. Through dedicated systems and reporting tools, committees vigilantly oversee their areas of responsibility, ensuring continuous improvement and alignment with the College's overarching goals.

4.4 │ Panel

Panel is substructure designed to support the broad objectives of a relevant committee. They are established to break down overarching committee objectives into more manageable tasks, allowing for specialised focus and attention to detail. Chaired by accountable managers, panels are tasked with the provision of minutes and reports to their parent committee, thereby enabling the committee to confirm the attainment of its overall objectives.

These panels ensure that all aspects under the committee's remit are progressing towards the defined targets, and their findings and recommendations are critical for the committee's informed decision-making and reporting to the senior Board.

4.5 │ Standing Orders

The College CAGF incorporates standing orders to streamline the operation and management of OBC's governing bodies. These standing orders establish a consistent governance structure across all committees, detailing rules and protocols for meetings, decision-making, and accountability. They serve as a comprehensive reference to ensure that committee functions align with the College's strategic plan and governance standards.

These standing orders complement the specific ToRs for each committee, and together, they form the complete governance protocol. The ToRs should be read in conjunction with the standing orders, as they collectively define the scope and execution of committee responsibilities. Details of the standing orders are presented in Appendix B.

5.2 │ BoG member life cycle: appointment, trainings, tenure, and termination

The College's BoD is appointed by the company's shareholders. This Board has established the BoG, which extends beyond the Directors to collectively oversee the College's affairs. The Chair of the BoG is appointed by the BoD in accordance with shareholder requirements and in consultation with current BoG members. Under the Companies Act 2006, the BoD holds collective, individual, and unequivocal accountability for fulfilling their legal obligations.

The Chair of the BoG convenes both formal and informal meetings with shareholders as necessary, in accordance with shareholder requirements.

When vacancies arise or specific expertise is needed, Governors are appointed by the BoG. The tenure for an independent governor is four years, with the possibility of reappointment for up to an additional four-year term based on previous successful service.

The BoG is entrusted with ensuring the diversity of its membership and regularly evaluates its effectiveness, including conducting formal audits of knowledge and expertise. In the event of a Governor vacancy, the BoG is responsible for approving the role description and person specification. The Remuneration and Search Committee, established by the BoG, may opt to seek targeted applications to promote diversity, ensuring compliance with the Equality Act 2010.

Vacancies for independent Governors are advertised on the College's website and other relevant external platforms. The Remuneration and Search Committee evaluates all applications, follows due process, and subsequently recommends an appointment to the BoG.

The Remuneration and Search Committee is tasked with making recommendations regarding the selection process for independent Governor vacancies. Following the conclusion of this process, the committee presents its recommendation for appointment to the BoG.

Each independent governor will be provided with a formally approved induction document sanctioned by the BoG upon their appointment. Moreover, upon joining the Board, all governors will undergo an induction process. Additionally, governors will receive supplementary training as necessitated by emerging legal or regulatory mandates. In the absence of such mandates, governors are entrusted with the responsibility of proactively maintaining and enhancing their competencies and understanding through regular skill and knowledge updates.

The CAGF undergoes an internal review on an annual basis. This review serves to identify any recommendations and to ensure that the governance arrangements remain aligned with their intended objectives. Additionally, an external review of the corporate and academic governance arrangements is conducted every four years. This external review provides an independent assessment of the effectiveness and suitability of the governance structures and processes.

The CAGF may only be amended upon a majority vote by the BoG to enact such changes.

The Academic Board holds the authority to propose amendments to the academic governance components within the CAGF. This is achieved by submitting recommendations to the BoG for consideration.

10 | APPENDIX A: Six primary elements of the Committee of University Chairs' 'The Higher Education Code of Governance'

1. Accountability: The BoG is collectively responsible and accountable for institutional activities, approving all final decisions on matters of fundamental concern within its remit.

2. Sustainability: In ensuring the sustainability of the College, the BoG actively seeks and receives assurance that delivery of the strategic plan is in line with legislative and regulatory requirements, institutional values, policies and procedures, and that there are effective systems of control and risk management in place.

3. Reputation: The BoG safeguards and promotes institutional reputation and autonomy by operating in accordance with the values that underpin this Code, its various elements, and the principles of public life.

4. Equality, Diversity, and Inclusivity: The BoG promotes a positive culture that supports ethical behaviour, equality, diversity, and inclusivity across the College, including in the BoG's own operation and composition. This includes ensuring under-representation and differences in outcomes are challenged and, where practicable, corrective action is taken to ensure fair outcomes for all.

5. Effectiveness: The BoG ensures that governance structures and processes are robust, effective, and agile by scrutinising and evaluating governance performance against this Code (and other Codes where an institution's constitutional form requires it), and recognised standards of good practice.

6. Engagement: Governing bodies understand the various stakeholders of the College (globally, nationally, and locally) and are assured that appropriate and meaningful engagement takes place to allow stakeholder views to be considered and reflected in relevant decision-making processes.

11 │ APPENDIX B: Committee Standing Orders

The purpose of Committee Standing Orders is to outline the rules and regulations governing all OBC Committees and their management and operation. These Standing Orders provide a framework to ensure consistency in practices across all OBC Committees. OBC may establish various Committees as deemed necessary to facilitate its operations. All Committees at OBC require approval from the BoG, Executive Principal and the Managing Director.

These Standing Orders are applicable to all formally constituted OBC Boards, Committees, or Panels, collectively referred to as "Committees" in this appendix. These Standing Orders are binding on all Committees and cannot be suspended. Any inquiries or clarifications related to these Standing Orders should be directed to the relevant Committee Secretary in the first instance or to the Executive Principal.

11.1 │ Declaration of Interest
A. OBC Board members and OBC Directors must annually declare any personal interest, whether pecuniary or otherwise, that could potentially interfere with their independent judgment.
B. Committee Members with a personal interest in matters under discussion during a committee meeting must promptly disclose their personal interest to the meeting. Depending on the nature of the interest, they may need to abstain from contributing to the debate or voting on the issue.
C. Committee Members are not considered to have a personal or pecuniary interest in matters solely because they are OBC staff or students.

Failure to comply with standing order 11.1A, 11.1B, and/or 11.1C may result in possible disciplinary action.

11.2 │ Membership
Committee membership will be as defined in the membership and terms of reference. Committee members fall into the following categories:

- Ex officio: Designates a member who holds membership by virtue of their position or role within OBC. Membership automatically transitions with changes in the position. Ex officio members are not appointed for a specific duration.
- Appointed: Denotes an individual whose membership status has been determined either by a committee within OBC, such as the BoG or Academic Board, or by the committee itself.
- Nominated: Refers to a person whose membership has been proposed or formally sanctioned by another individual or body within OBC, such as a Dean of Campus.
- Elected: Signifies an individual whose membership results from a formal election process within OBC, e.g. student representatives.
- Co-opted: Designates a person appointed as an additional member based on personal merit or specific expertise, typically on a temporary basis. OBC committees may co-opt members autonomously without referral to other OBC committees or bodies. If a committee regularly co-opts an individual in a long-term capacity, reconsideration of the committee's constitution is advisable.
- Observer: Indicates an individual, such as a representative from an organisation closely affiliated with OBC, who, while not possessing full membership status, receives committee documents and is entitled to attend meetings.
- In attendance: Though not a formal committee membership category, this term is utilised in committee minutes to denote individuals present at the meeting besides the committee members. Such persons may include the Secretary and OBC officers who, though not members of the committee, attend meetings regularly to provide subject expertise or address queries from committee members. Additionally, individuals 'in attendance' may comprise OBC officers or others invited to a specific committee meeting to contribute to a particular agenda item or engage in pertinent discussions.

11.3 │ Appointment of Committee Chairs
The chair of governing body's related committee is appointed by the BoG. For all other committees, the chair is appointed by the SLT. Provisions exist for co-opting up to two members to all committees (excluding the BoG), with the committee chair making co-options. In the event that the committee chair is unavailable to preside over a committee meeting, they should designate a member of the committee to assume the role of chair, ensuring the timely execution of the meeting.

11.4 │ Responsibilities of the Chair

The Chair holds primary responsibility for overseeing the committee's operations. Specifically, the Chair should:

- Possess a thorough understanding of the committee's mandate and delineate the boundaries of its jurisdiction and authorities.
- Proactively advance the committee's agenda and initiatives, ensuring progress by finalising decisions/ actions and momentum. Committee meetings can be adjourned for valid reasons by the Chair. The Chair and Secretary decide the date, time, and location of reconvened meetings, with notices sent to all members.
- Efficiently manage the committee's affairs to ensure smooth and effective operations during meetings and between them. This includes optimising the committee's size to the minimum necessary for effective functioning and streamlining paperwork and meeting durations to essential levels.
- Continuously evaluate the efficacy and suitability of the committee, seeking input from other committee officers as needed to ensure its relevance and effectiveness over time. This may involve periodic reviews and adjustments to ensure alignment with OBC's priorities.

11.5 │ Responsibilities of the Committee Members

Members of the committee are expected to:

- Grasp the committee's scope of operation and comprehend the boundaries of its authority and functions within the context of OBC's governance structure.
- Demonstrate commitment by attending committee meetings regularly. It is incumbent upon members to prioritise attendance, and in instances where attendance is not feasible, timely notification of apologies to the committee Secretary is required. Ex officio membership is considered non-transferable.
- Adequately prepare for meetings by thoroughly reviewing committee papers beforehand, contemplating their contents, and consulting with relevant stakeholders as necessary to contribute effectively to discussions.
- Adhere to confidentiality markings on committee documents and refrain from disclosing any confidential business or information discussed within the committee to external parties.
- Maintain impartiality and act in the best interests of OBC, ensuring decisions are not influenced by personal relationships or business interests.

11.6 │ Responsibilities of the Committee Secretary

The Committee Secretary, although not typically a committee member, plays a crucial role in its functioning. The Secretary's responsibilities include scheduling, managing the committee's business, familiarising themselves with its terms of reference, briefing the Chair, attending meetings, drafting minutes, distributing minutes, and following up on actions. Additionally, they are responsible for maintaining records, ensuring compliance with reporting relationships, and organising committee documents.

11.7 │ Ordinary Meetings

Ordinary Meetings follow the schedule outlined in the OBC Governance Calendar. Meeting dates are communicated to the Committee at the start of the academic year. If necessary, the Committee Secretary consults with Members to propose alternate dates for Ordinary Meetings. Members will receive reasonable notice before rescheduled meetings, unless exceptional circumstances arise.

11.8 │ Extraordinary/ Emergency Meetings

Extraordinary/ Emergency meetings may be held as determined by the Committee Chair, convened by the Committee Secretary, and members are typically notified at least seven calendar days in advance, unless exceptional circumstances arise. At Extraordinary/ Emergency meetings, discussions are limited to the agenda items with prior notice, and any additional matters raised by the Committee Chair during the meeting are included in the minutes. Minutes of Extraordinary/ Emergency Meetings are presented at the subsequent Ordinary Meeting.

11.9 │ Categories of Committee Business

The committee structure delineates the following three categories of committee business:

- Unrestricted (or 'open') business: To the extent possible, be open and unrestricted, with confidential business minimised. However, certain items within committee documents may necessitate restriction solely to committee members or to a subset thereof, such as non-student members, due to confidentiality considerations.

- Confidential and Confidential (Reserved) business: Items designated as confidential should be clearly indicated as such on the agenda. In specific circumstances, it may be advantageous to list confidential items separately on a confidential agenda sheet. Regardless of format, confidential items should be documented separately in a confidential section following the open minutes.

    o Confidential Business typically encompasses matters pertaining to sensitive information held by the College or concerning its interests. This includes, but is not limited to:

        ▪ The personal safety of OBC staff and students.
        ▪ The security of OBC's property.
        ▪ The commercial interests of OBC and its partners.
        ▪ Confidential relationships, whether personal or commercial.

    o Confidential (Reserved) Business involves confidential matters from which any student members of the committee are excluded during deliberations. This may encompass business referring to individual staff members by name (pertaining to appointments, promotions, etc.), as well as items referencing individual students by name (relating to admissions, academic assessment, etc.).

Certain committees may have their entire business designated as confidential. In such instances, both the agenda papers and subsequent minutes should be labelled as Confidential.

Members should acknowledge that categorising a committee document as confidential does not automatically guarantee exemption from disclosure if challenged. Concerns regarding the confidentiality of business items should be addressed with the Committee Secretary.

All Committee business remains confidential to OBC. Reports circulated among Committee Members should not be disclosed outside OBC without the Committee Chair's permission, in consultation with the Committee Secretary.

Unless explicitly marked as 'Restricted,' 'Commercial in Confidence,' or 'Confidential' upon circulation, Members may share information with OBC staff within their teams, with the understanding that this information remains within OBC. Proceedings of the Committee, including discussions, voting, and opinions expressed by members, are confidential both during and after meetings.

Only the Committee Chair or an authorised individual may issue statements on behalf of the Committee regarding its business or proceedings.

Committee Chairs can address individuals not respecting confidentiality, requesting clarification and cessation of such actions where necessary.

11.10 │ Attendance, Quoracy and Participation

Committee members can attend meetings in person or remotely through virtual means. Remote participants are considered present for quorum purposes. All Committees require a quorum of 50% of the total membership.

11.11 │ Presentation of agenda and committee paperwork

- Agendas and meeting papers are typically circulated electronically to members concurrently with the meeting notice.

- In exceptional cases, papers are provided no later than two working days before the meeting.
- Only papers circulated by the Committee Secretary are considered during the meeting.
- Papers introduced during a meeting are at the discretion of the Committee Chair.
- The order of business is outlined in the agenda by the Committee Secretary and may be revised by the Committee Chair during the meeting.
- Papers for agenda circulation must reach the Secretary at least seven working days in advance.
- Papers submitted after the deadline require the Chair's approval for inclusion on the agenda.
- The agenda provides information about each agenda item's nature and purpose.
- Agendas and related documents are circulated at least seven days before the meeting date.

11.12 │ Record of Committee Business
Formal minutes are prepared for Ordinary and Extraordinary Meetings and are considered accurate at the next Committee meeting. Attendance records are maintained, and attendance is reported in the minutes. Apologies for absence must be submitted in advance to the Committee Secretary.

11.13 │ Dealing with Matters of Urgency/ Chair's Action

Chair's Action on Minor and Routine Matters: Chair's action may be exercised as a delegated authority granted by the committee or within the inherent role of the Chair itself. It is imperative for committees to establish clear guidelines regarding the circumstances under which Chair's action could be initiated, including the necessary documentation and procedures for delegating authority to the Chair to act on behalf of the committee between meetings. Such actions typically involve addressing minor or routine matters that do not warrant discussion during committee sessions and may have limited impact on the organisation. In instances where Chair's action is necessary following discussions or the requirement of additional documents, committee members should collectively agree if the Chair can proceed upon receipt of all relevant documentation and information. This approach ensures timely decision-making without the need to reconvene the committee for approval of minor matters.

Chair's Action on Urgent Matters: In cases where urgent matters arise, and there is insufficient time to wait until the next scheduled committee meeting, the Chair may opt to call a special meeting, consult committee members via correspondence, or address the issue through chair's action. However, it is crucial for the Chair to exercise caution and refrain from making decisions via chair's action where it may be inappropriate to do so or if it exceeds the scope of the delegated authority granted by the role. If the Chair is unable to convene an Extraordinary or Emergency meeting, correspondence with committee members on urgent matters becomes essential. In such cases, the Chair must provide comprehensive information and documentation to facilitate informed decision-making among members. The Chair should specify a deadline for feedback from members, allowing for thorough consideration of the circulated information. Based on the agreed-upon delegated responsibility, the Chair may then proceed to take necessary action without the need for further committee deliberation.

11.14 │ Changes to Standing Orders
The Executive Principal periodically review Committee Standing Orders. Proposed changes are considered by the SLT. The SLT recommends revisions to the BoG for approval of Committee Standing Order amendments.

12 │ APPENDIX C: College Organogram
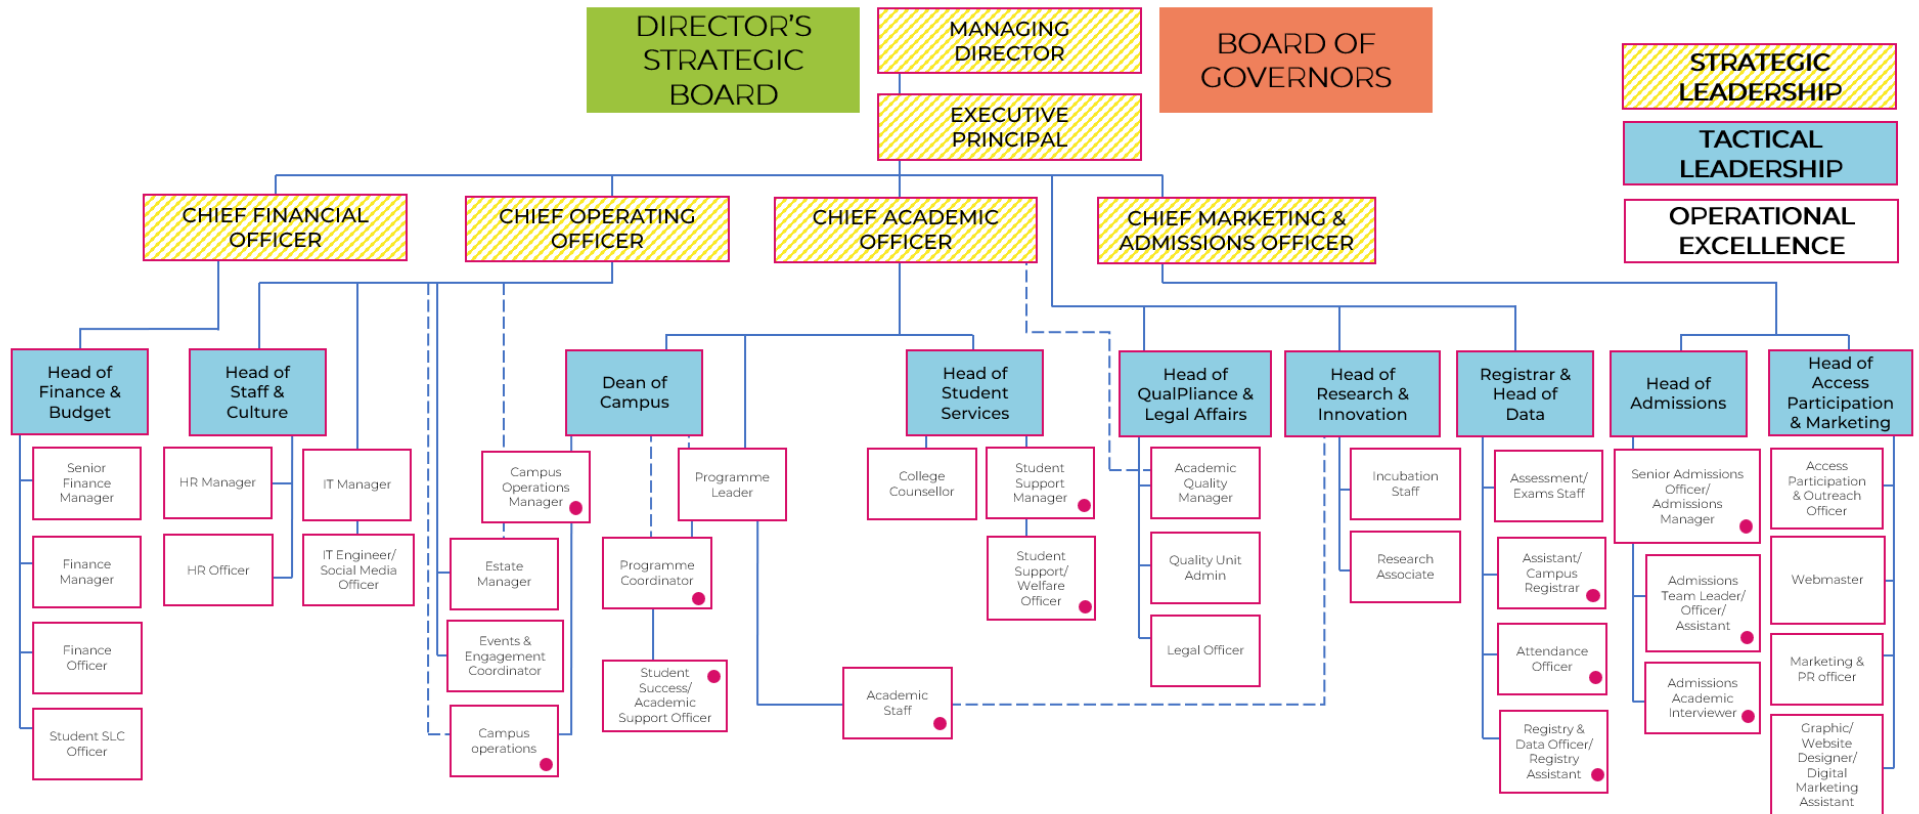

A direct reporting relationship. It signifies the formal chain of command within the organisation, where a clear line of authority and accountability exists. Employees connected by a solid line have a hierarchical relationship, indicating a supervisor-subordinate connection. The supervisor / line manager is responsible for annual appraisals as well.

A dotted line signifies a strategic and empowered functional or advisory connection between positions or departments. It denotes a collaborative or consultative association, where the higher position holds enhanced authority and decision-making power, ensuring vertical flow of expertise. This structure enables the higher position to wield significant influence and contribute to overarching campus goals.
